LABOR LEADER CLAIMS SHERIFF REFUSED TO PROTECT COAL MINERS

John Lawson Describes Conditions In Camps Before Arrival of Troops

COPPER MINERS TESTIFY

Miners Assert They are Compelled to Toil Under Dangerous and Unsanitary Conditions

CONDEMN CONTRACT SYSTEM

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 11.—John W. Lawson, leader of the Colorado strikers, was crossed examined late today before the house investigating committee. He described the events in the southern coal camps before the arrival of state troops and told of instances in which he claimed he had asked the sheriff for protection, for the strikers' tent colonies, but in vain. Finally, he said, after one of the battles between mine guards and strikers, protection was offered but rejected. Lawson told of ordering tents from West Virginia and of buying bedding, clothing and fuel.

"Did you buy any guns?" asked Lawyer Northcutt of counsel for the operators.

Thereupon the labor leader appealed to the committee.

"A grand jury is now in session in Las Animas county, gentlemen," he said. "This grand jury seems very desirous of indicting us. For this reason, unless the committee insists, I'd rather not go very far into this gun business. I will say that there were some guns bought but not until after the operators had imported machine guns."

"The witness can refuse to answer any question that might incriminate him," Chairmna Foster ruled. "But the committee wants the facts."

"When did you buy the first guns" Attorney Northcutt asked.

"Not until after the second battle of Ludlow."

The lawyer took another tack. It was at the second fight that machine guns were used.

"Your organization is defending ten men now in jail on charges of murdering four guards near LaVeta isn't it?"

"Yes."

"You think those persons guilty or innocent, are entitled to the protection of your organization?"

"You ought to be able to answer that question for me," the witness replied smiling.

"Yes, I think every man is entitled to protection."

James Brewster for the miners conducted the re-direct examination. Then Lawson was excused.

Copper Miners Testify.

Hancock, Mich., Feb. 10.—Sixteen striking copper mine workers testified today before the congressional investigators that they were compelled to toil under dangerous and unsanitary conditions for wages that barely enabled them to exist. The contract system of pay was generally condemned.

The committee has decided to go to Calumet to investigate the Italian Hall disaster on Christmas Eve as relating to the deportation of Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners two nights later. There is some difference of opinion among the members of the committee as to the scope the inquiry should take on this subject.

Daniel Waatti who said he had worked in Calumet and Hecla mines for 26 years, testified that working conditions had become worse in every way during the last five years.

AMERICAN NAVAL TUG FIRMLY GRIPPED IN ICE

LITTLE CHANCE OF POTOMAC GETTING FREE OF FLOE BEFORE SPRING

All Men Aboard are Reported Well—Landing Party Comes Across Ice to Bonne Bay to Replenish Coal and Provision Supplies—Crews of Fishing Craft in No Danger.

BULLETIN.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Feb. 11.—Advices received here from the west coast indicate that the plight of the American naval tug Potomac which is caught in the ice floes, is serious and that she may have been abandoned. Unless she can be cut out by powerful ice breaking steamers it is believed that she will drift northward toward the straits of Belle Isle.

BONNE BAY, N. F., Feb. 11.—The American naval tug Potomac which came to these waters to rescue two fishing craft caught in the ice at Bay of Islands is now so firmly gripped in an ice floe herself that the chance of her getting away before spring is considered small. Heavy ice has become packed into the Gulf of St. Lawrence south to Cabot Strait and while continued easterly winds might break it up so that the Potomac could make a nearby harbor, mariners believe there is little likelihood that she would be able to get clear of the gulf. The prevailing winds are northwest.

The first officer and others of the tug's crew walked ashore at Lobster Head Light Station today. They reported her hard and fast three miles off Rocky Harbor. All the 36 men of the Potomac are well, but coal and provisions are running low. In order to replenish their supplies, the landing party came to Bonne Bay tonight and will drag sled loads of food back over the ice tomorrow.

The crews of the Francis Willard and the Hiram Lowell, the two schoolers which were caught in the ice at Bay of Islands remains on board but are considered in no danger as they can reach shore over the ice pack.

FIRE IN I. C. CHICAGO BAGGAGE DEPOT DOES GREAT DAMAGE

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Fire in the incoming baggage depot of the Illinois Central railroad did damage estimated at $50,000. Damage by water may largely increase this sum, according to J. C. Osborne, chief baggage agent. Baggage handlers risked their lives hauling out trunks and suit cases and postal clerks sending mail from the building through pneumatic tubes to the central postoffice remained at their stations until all the mail sacks had been thrown from the windows.

Fifty girls employed in the laundry department on the second floor of the building were taken down the fire escapes. Zero temperature hampered the firemen and pipemen worked while coated with ice from head to foot.

CAPT. JOHNSON GIVES VERSION OF DISASTER

NANTUCKET COMMANDER PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO CHARGES

Captain Berry Listens to Story of Captain of Sunken Steamer Monroe—Johnson Declares Wireless Great Help if Operators Attend to Business.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 11.—Captain Osmyn Berry commander of the Steamship Nantucket, charged with negligence in the recent collision with the Steamship Monroe off the Virginia coast in which forty-one lives were lost, today listened to Captain Edward E. Johnson of the sunken Monroe give his version of that disaster before the local United States inspectors of steam vessels who will determine who was responsible for the accident.

Captain Berry pleaded not guilty to the charges brought by the government steamboat inspetcors at Norfolk. He is charged with failing to reduce the speed of his ship to avoid the collision,, failing to ascertain whether the wireless operator was on duty and with being careless in not ascertaining by wireless whether any other vessels were close by in the fog.

One of the most important points brought out in the examination of Captain Johnson was that he navigated the Monroe with a steering compass that deviated as much as two degrees from the standard magnet compass. He said the instrument was sufficiently true to run the ship and that it was the custom of masters in the coast wide trade to use such compasses. His compass, he testified had never been adjusted in the one year he was master of the Monroe.

Questioned as to what action he took to find out by wireles the proximity of the other vessels, Captain Johnson said he had instructed the operator to ascertain the location of the Steamer Hamilton which he knew was coming down the coast. The vessel was located near the Delaware Capes. The Nantucket must have been between the Hamilton and the Monroe, Captain Johnson said, but the operator of the Nantucket did not make his presence known. Captain Johnson was asked his views on the efficiency of the wireless in locating vessels in fogs and said it was a great help. He added however that some operators do not bother answering questions about the location of their ships.

HUERTA'S AGENTS ATTEMPT TO RUSH MEN FROM EL PASO

Four Troops of U. S. Cavalry Prevent Violation of the Neutrality Law

Thirty Automobiles Filled with Armed Mexicans Attempt to Cross River to Mexico

U.S. TROOPS CAPTURE HORSES

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 11.—An attempt to rush Mexicans recruited in this city by Huerta's agents across the river tonight brought out four troops of the fifteenth cavalry to prevent the violation of neutrality. The attempt was made about 11 o'clock and the news reached General Hugh L. Scott in excited telephone messages from the Ysleta road. At Dairy Farm, five miles east an observer estimated the number of automobiles at thirty and the telephone exchange operator at Ysleta, thirteen miles east made a similar estimate.

The machines were loaded with men those who telephoned said, all armed with rifles and there were boxes which were assumed to carry ammunition in addition to that in the belts of the men.

At Ysleta the American troops concentrated and trace of the motor cars, temporarily at least were lost.

Meanwhile word came from Juarez that the rebels who had information through their agents that the attempt would be made had captured some of the would-be federals down the river.

General Villa's aides said that the general knew the attempt would be made and was adverse to the information reaching General Scott, so the men could cross the border.

A detachment of troops also was sent west of the smelter where there was an easy ford of the river. Other detachments went to other points on the Ysleta road.

Horses for the recruits are said to have been in waiting since Sunday in the tall weeds on the Mexican side in the Ysleta district. Saddles packed in barrels are believed to have been spirited across yesterday.

At mid-night a number of horses collected on the American side at Ysleta were captured but apparently the men for whom they were intended had escaped. Major Robert E. L. Michie of the thirteenth United States cavalry, part of which is stationed here was left in charge. He deployed his men into the bushes and weeds for miles down the road. Search in the darkness was all but impossible and the troops could only await daylight.

The booty captured by the Americans included 400 horses and an equal number of saddles and blankets and a supply of ammunition.

The prisoners captured by General Villa's men proved to be inoffensive peons who live near the scene of their capture. General Scott, satisfied that important developments were over for the night, went to bed.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 11.—Maximo Castillo and six of his followers were captured and executed on Monday near Chocolate Pass, about 45 miles northeast of Pearson, Chihuahua, according to telegrams received this morning by General Francisco Villa in Juarez opposite here.

Many witnesses were heard by the jurors before the inquiry was closed.

The activities of Sol Lewinsohn, a professional bondsman who recently disappeared were linked with the Johnson charges in the investigation.

BASEBALL STATUS OF EVERS IS QUESTIONED

COMPLICATED SITUATION FOLLOWS PRESIDENT MURPHY'S ACTION

Former Club Manager Believes He is a Free Agent, Murphy Asserts He is Property of Boston Nationals, While National League is Acting in Capacity of Guardian.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The baseball status of Johnny Evers, deposed manager of the Chicago National League club is one of the mysteries of organized baseball tonight. Evers believes that he is a free agent; Charles W. Murphy of the Cubs says he is the property of the Boston Nationals and the National League is on record as acting in the capacity of guardian to the peppery second baseman. This complicated situation developed as the result of Murphy's hiring Henry (Hank) O'Day as manager of the Cubs before he legally released Evers from the same position. At a special meeting of the board of directors and the National League as a whole that body decided Evers had not resigned as contended by Murphy, and that his five year contract as manager and player was valid and binding.

The league further agreed to take over all rights and responsibilities under the contract thus helping Murphy out of an embarrassing position. The Boston club immediately entered into a contract with Murphy to trade Infielder W. J. Sweeney and Pitcher "Hub" Purdue for Evers, but the latter asserted he would not be a party to the contract. He insisted that unless arrangements acceptable to him were made he would sign with the Federal League, which he said had made him a liberal proposition for three years of play including a cash bonus to be delivered upon the signing of a contract. Evers said he had no grievance against the Boston club or the National League as a whole, but he would not be a party to a deal whereby Murphy, against whom he is extremely bitter, would secure two valuable players, thus profiting by the move something that Evers is determined he shall not do.

To further complicate matters, Joseph Tinker, manager of the Chicago Federals and former teammate of Evers is speeding to this city at the order of President Gilmore of the new league to try and induce Evers to sign with the Federals. Evers told the magnates that he had not received verbal or written announcement from Murphy that he was no longer manager of the Cubs and Murphy admitted at the meeting that he had overlooked the necessary formality of giving Evers his ten day notice of release before signing O'Day as his new or second manager.

Children Will Miss Pioneer's Stories

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Mathew Knorst, old settler, old soldier and teller of tales is dead and today children on north side are mourning and must wait in vain for the completion of a war story which was begun by the old man, last Saturday.

For seventy three years except a three year interval when he was at the front in the Union Army, Mathew Knorst lived in Vine street of late his chief pleasure was to tell stories of the war and invent tales of fairies for the children who flocked to him.

Stories of the prairie fires, the rivers and lakes and how they disported themselves before the big city was built came naturally to the old man's lips. Children went to his cottage door today, but did not see him. He was found dead in a gas filled room by the police.

ORGANIZE FOR WORK IN FIRST WARD SCHOOLS

Parent-Teachers Association Made Excellent Beginning at Meeting Yesterday—Rev. Mr. Darsie and Supt. Gore Made Addresses.

With a commendable desire to emulate the example of the other wards which have organized parent-teachers associations, Miss Clara Cobb, principal of the first ward school with the advice and cooperation of Supt. Gore, invited the parents of the Jefferson school to come to a preliminary meeting with the teachers yesterday afternoon at 3:30 at the close of the regular school exercises.

A goodly number of mothers responded while Supt. Gore and Rev. Clyde Darsie were also on hand. Cobb welcomed all present and explained the object of the gathering which was to promote a better and closer relationship between teachers pupils and parents. She very much hoped the affair would culminate in good and promote the better efficiency of the schools. She then introduced Miss Elson Pires, a young miss of probably twelve or thirteen years of age who favored audience with a piano number entitled "La-Sylph."

Seek Better Work.

Miss Cobb then turned the meeting over to Supt. Gore who in turn said they had been desirous of doing that which would redound to the welfare of the school. He hoped there would be a better attendance next time though he was well pleased with the turnout on this occasion. He wanted both fathers and mothers to be there and thought he would get the fathers if he asked them to come and take home their wives. The great object was to get the parents more interested in the schools so that better work would be done. In Bloomington the teachers didn't like the plan but it was not so in Jacksonville. Flourishing associations were to be found in the other wards and it was his desire to see as good in this. Parents who have truant children and will not make them attend are not expected to join the association but all others are wanted.

The Value of Schools.

He then introduced Rev. Clyde Darsie who spoke on "Democracy and Education." Of his excellent address a short outline is given: "This is a high sounding subject but I shall try to show that it has some bearing on the enterprise in hand. I want it known that there are many in the city interested in the public schools. I have six excellent reasons for my interest. When our fathers began this government they said it was for the people but the government can never be any better than the people themselves. So our fathers faced the question and solved it by establishing free pu schools. If there were no schools all would grow up in ignorance and what would be the result? Look at Mexico today for an answer. There 80 to 90 per cent of the people cannot read and write. See what a revolution has been wrought in the Philippines. Several thousand teachers have been sent there and several hundred thousand children have be gathered into the schools and a new element is coming on and a brighter day for the land. They begun schools educating the people who v some day be fit for the ballot. The government establishes the schools and then tells the parents that they must send the children. Good citizens are needed in the land and to get them we must have people educated in the schools.

Cooperation Brings Best Results

"The best work is always attained by cooperation. The teachers cannot do all for the pupils especially if they do not have the cooperation of the parents. Both must work together to accomplish the most. A man was talking about Chicago an said any one of that city will advise you to go there to get anything in the world and are always standing up for it. If we had more men all the time talking for Jacksonville and asking everybody to trade here and setting the example we might go ahead as Chicago has gone on a larger scale.

"As Chicago has succeeded as a city so may we succeeded in our schools by all standing together and working in harmony. The parents should stand up for the teacher and not be in too big a hurry to accept as surely accurate every story the child brings home. The boy or girl may tell the truth but still it may have such a bias as to give a wrong impression. See the teacher's side before making up your mind. The teachers want to do what is best and the parents will generally be safe in upholding them. The noblest calling in the world is that of the mother in rearing the future citizens of this land. They need all the help they can get and the teacher is ready to aid. When I was a boy my father was always ready to stand by the teacher and a punishment at school meant another at home.

Parents Should Know Teachers

"The parents should know the teachers, become acquainted with them and be in a position to aid them in every way possible. I had but one teacher whom I utterly disliked. I was then a young chap starting in the high school and thought I was hardly receiving the attention my age demanded. I was not well qualified to judge then and have found it out since.

"I like to see the familiarity and affection between the teachers and pupils. I like to see them go hand in hand or together to and from school. Of course we can hardly expect the boys to do this but the girls will, at any rate.

"Look after the children's work and see that they do it. My oldest boy was deficient in his spelling. The teacher came to be about it and I took it in hand twice. The boy found I was in earnest and wanttd and expected him to get those lessons and he did though I helped him but twice. I as sure this movement will be for the best. I am glad to be here and when it attains great proportions don't forget that I had a hand in the first meeting."

Miss Cobb emphasized the speaker's remarks and made a plea cooperation and assured all of the desire of herself and teachers to do the best for the schools.

Miss Vivian Vieira, a little girl about eight or nine years old, sang most acceptably a song, "A L Child Shall Lead Them." Miss Cobb accompanied on the piano.

Light refreshments were then served and quite a time was spent informally getting acquainted. present were well pleased and the outlook for a successful organization is fine.

BOARD CONSIDERS PURCHASE OF MOTOR DRIVEN MACHINERY

Will Advertise for Bids With View to Buying New Equipment for Manual Training Department at High School.

At a special meeting Wednesday evening of the board of education called to consider the purchase of new machinery for the manual training department at the high school it was decided to investigate the matter further and to advertise for bids for the desired electric equipment. Miss Anna G. Brown, head of the manual training department, presented the matter to the board, the full membership of which was present. The machinery desired consists of four lathes, a rip-saw and a band-saw, each machine to be driven by its own motor. It will replace the present equipment of three lathes and a band-saw which are driven by overhead shafting. The worn machinery now in use can be replaced a an approximate cost of $1,000.

The necessity of immediate action was urged by Miss Brown who declared the present equipment to be inadequate for the needs of a growing department, wasteful of electric current and more or less dangerous. Better and safer machinery is needed especially during the latter or busier half of the school year, she said. Exception was taken to this suggestion of immediate action by Member Rogerson who thought that the summer vacation would be the time to make the change. Miss Brown pointed out in conclusion that a period of four days would suffice for the replacement of the old equipment by new and that there would be little interruption to the work of the department. She read letters discussing the superiority of motor head driven machinery from George A. Ross of the Lewis Institute, Chicago; R. A. Kissell, supervisor of manual training in the schools of St. Louis and the American Wood Working Machinery Co.

After a short discussion it was suggested by Mayor Davis that specifications of the machines desired be prepared by Miss Brown and sent to the respective machinery companies. The motion was put by Member Hall and was carried unanimously that "The board instruct Miss Brown to draw up specifications for motor head driven machinery and that the clerk be instructed to advertise for bids on the basis of said specifications."

WOMAN TIRED OF LIFE'S TROUBLES TRIED SUICIDE

MRS. ROBERT REDDING TOOK POISON IN EFFORT AT SELF-DESTRUCTION.

Sank on Grace Church Steps After Swallowing Carbolic Acid—Husband Not Far Away But Made No Effort to Give Aid—Woman at Our Savior's Hospital and Will Recover—Family Troubles Cause of Her Act.

About 8 o'clock Wednesday morning Mrs. Robert Redding was found in a semi-conscious condition on the steps at the south side of Grace church. A empty bottle at the woman's side bearing a label "carbolic acid" indicated that she had attempted suicide. Persons who happened that way were attracted by her groans and medical aid was summoned. A short time later Mrs. Redding was removed to Our Savior's hospital where she regained consciousness in the afternoon and it is believed that she will recover. Dr. A. M. King is attending her.

Formerly Lived in Winchester.

All during the morning hours the identity of the woman was a mystery as there was nothing about her person to indicate her name. After she had regained consciousness it developed from a conversation with Sister Felicia at the hospital that her name was Mrs. Robert Redding and that prior to her marriage she was Miss Tina Moore of Winchester. Eight or ten years ago, prior to her marriage she was at one time a patient at Our Savior's hospital and Sister Felicia and others who were on the nurse's staff at the time remember her distinctly. It seems that the woman's husband, Robert Redding, has been following her along the street about the time that she took the poison and that he saw her being carried from the church steps but made no further inquiries and showed no interest in the case until he was visited about noon by Frank Kiloran, day desk sergeant at police headquarters.

The sorrowful story of the family seems to run about this. Robert Redding and Miss Tina Moore were married about 10 years ago. Redding as a boy was employed in the news room of the Journal office and subsequent to being admitted to the printers' union left Jacksonville. He was for a time in Decatur, and in some other cities, but for the past three years has been living in Terre Haute, Ind. For a part of the time during his residence there he has been employed as a linotype operator on the Terre Haute Star. As he has been out of employment for some time he decided to bring his wife and three children here and they arrived about a week ago and have been living with his mother, Mrs. Amanda Redding, at 310 South Main street. The children are aged, respectively, 7 4 and 2 years old.

Domestic Life Unhappy.

Redding and his wife have not lived together happily and according to his story they had some sort of a quarrel Tuesday. Wednesday morning it is understood that this trouble was renewed and that the wife said she was tired of it all and was going to get out. With these words she put on her hat and sweater coat and left the house. A minute or two later the husband followed her. Mrs. Redding went to the drug store of Obermeyer & Son where it later developed that she bought 10 cents worth of carbolic acid. Mr. Obermeyer hesitated some time about selling her the drug but the woman stated in answer to his questions that she wanted it for anti-septic purposes and finally disarmed the suspicion he felt that everything was not just right.

Husband Followed Wife.

Leaving the drug store Mrs. Redding walked west and along Morgan street. Her husband who had been standing in front of a nearby store again followed her at some distance. Mrs. Redding turned north on Church street went to Jordan street and then west to Kosciusko. After reaching the latter street she turned south and then walked east. In front of the High school building she hurriedly drank the fiery poison. She moved along to Fayette street turned south to Morgan and then walked along the north side of the street until Grace church was reached and she sank to the steps.

The husband had not followed her along all this route but was half a block or so away on Morgan street when she was on the church steps and saw several men going to her assistance. It is said he saw her drink from the bottle. He heard her call but instead of answering walked toward the east. A little later on, it is understood that he was seen hanging around when Mrs. Redding was placed in the ambulance to be taken to Our Savior's hospital. After the happening he evidently went to his rooms on South Main street and made no effort to learn as to his wife's condition.

Redding is Indifferent.

When Sergeant Kiloran was sent to the Redding home about noon by Chief Davis he was met by Redding's mother, who told of the family differences. She said too that Mrs. Redding had at one time been confined in an insane asylum in Indiana and had been discharged only a few months before. She said she did not consider her of sound mind and seemed to have very little sympatny in the whole proceeding. Redding did not come into the room until he was sent for and in reply to questions substantiated the story that his mother had told with reference to his quarrels with the wife and the fact that she had started out from the house that morning with the statement that she in tended to get out of it all. When asked, however, as to his wife having been in an insane hospital for several months, Redding said he didn't know. The man was then taken to police headquarters by Sergeant Kiloran for an interview with Chief of Police Davis. There Redding told practically the same story and Chief of Police could see no cause for arresting the man but at the same time gave him a good straight talk and suggested that it was time for him to get down to the hospital to see his wife and act the part of a man in the lamentable affair. Redding's actions are not those of a normal man and he has taken a very queer course in the whole proceeding He looks badly himself as if he had been through a long sickness or in hard luck of some kind and this may account for his seeming lack of feeling and interest. Mrs. Redding is about 35 years of age, of slight physique and her general appearance and dress bespeaks the years of hardship and toil which undoubtedly have marked her married life. Her home prior to her marriage was in Winchester.

The first persons to go to the aid of Mrs. Redding on the church steps were H. G. Rockwood and Raymond Davis and these men assisted by Harold Zachary and Grover Thompson carried her from the steps to a nearby house. Medical aid was quickly at hand, Dr. Woltman, Dr. Hardesty, Dr. King and Dr. Cole responding to the calls sent.

NO DUCK SHOOTING UNTIL NEXT SEPTEMBER

Attorney General Gives Interpretation of New Federal Law.

There will be no duck hunting this spring, according to the attorney general's interpretation of the new federal law, prohibiting the killing of migratory birds in Zone No. 1, which includes the state of Illinois from December 1, to September 1. This law is now in effect and therefore duck shooting to this state will not be legal until September 1 next.

There has been some hope among duck hunters that the federal game statute would not be effective until after April 15 next, but the secretary of the Illinois Gun club wrote in for information on this point and received the following letter from the office of solicitor of the department of agriculture as follows:

"The attorney general has referred to this department your letter. The regulations on October 1, 1913, for the enforcement of the act of March 1913 specifically provided that the closed season for water fowl in zone No. 1 which includes Illinois, shall be between December 1 and September 1. These regulations become effective on the date of their promulgation namely, October 11, 1913 and any shooting of water fowl after December 16 last, is a violation of the federal law."

Before returning home Superintendent Gore will visit the schools at Columbus, Washington and Norfolk. At Norfolk he will spend two or three days inspecting the Junior high school of that city. With the building of the new Eighth grade building here questions of studies pertaining thereto will come up. Perhaps in no city are the educational conditions so nearly like those of Jacksonville as at the Norfolk school. Their course of study, however, is arranged in accordance with the idea of allowing the students to start the language work such as German and Latin in the 8th grade, also algebra. Superintendent Gore will be out of the city for several days.

CLAIMS BULGARIANS FORGED GREEK ATROCITY STORIES.

That the various stories of atrocities committed by Greeks in the recent Balkan conflict were forgeries pure and simple is the claim of the "Temps" a leading daily of Paris France, as quoted in the New York "Atlantis." In Monday's issue of this paper which is taken by one of the Greek residents of Jacksonville, the American public is reminded that "The Greeks are Caucasians. They have a glorious past behind them and before them an ideal of nobility and honor. The Bulgarians are Mongolian Tartars, as uncivilized at heart and as grossly ignorant as their ancestors, the predatory nomads."

"We must admit," says the 'Temps,' "that the Bulgarians have a peculiar talent for forging documents with which to meet any situation that may arise. The Bulgarian pamphlets defaming Greece contain reproductions of fourteen leters of which but four show any destination." It would appear that the Bulgarians to gain sympathy for their cause and turn the attention of Christendom from their own misdeeds have forged a number of letters purporting to be from Greek soldiers accusing the Greeks themselves of the crimes committed by their enemies.

A HAPPY CHILD IN JUST A FEW HOURS

When Cross, Constipated or if Feverish Give "California Syrup of Figs" Then Don't Worry.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore thoat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Adv.

LINCOLN'S FRIEND

Edward D. Baker — Lawyer Orator Statesman Soldier Patriot Hero! Born in England Soldier in Mexico Slain in Civil War.

Illinois has been rich in its contribution of heroes to the Republic.

After Lincoln, known in all lands, and Grant, unmatched Soldier, Illinois trained Shields, who beat "Stonewall" Jackson, and Baker who fought Indians in Illinois, Mexicans in Mexico, and hostile Americans in Virginia.

"When shall their glory fade?"

It was in the city of London, England, that Edward Dickinson Baker, was born, in the year 1811 and his furtherest recollection was of the burial of the great Admiral Nelson. Then the child was brought to Philadelphia, where he became at weaver; then he was brought, for two years to New Harmony, Indiana, and at the age of sixteen years he walked to Belleville, Illinois. He was admitted to the bar, at the age of nineteen years and at twenty one was a soldier among the volunteers in the Black Hawk war. "When his enlistment expired, near Dixon, he procured a canoe, and with a single companion, descended the Father of Waters a distance of three hundred miles, to a point in Calhoun county, where he landed his frail bark, and proceeded on foot to his home in Carrollton."

This was Baker's introduction to public life and service.

His life history has recently been told in "The Contest for California in 1861. How Colonel E. D. Baker saved the Pacific States to the Union," by Elijah R. Kennedy.

And such a life history!

Much of what is here written is derived from the volume above named.

In his preface, Mr. Kennedy begins: "A professor one of our leading universities, said a New York paper I received one day at my hotel in London, I quote from memory, certain that I do not quote literally, visiting Washington, in one of the interesting rooms of the Capitol came across a marble statue inscribed "Baker." Whereupon, so the story ran, this learned professor, young, I dare say, probably familiar with the heroes of the Peloponnesian War, asked, 'Who was Baker? What did he do to get in here?'" These questions prompted me to write this book.

But, years before our learned professor asked his questions I had refle ted that those of us who knew Gen. Baker, who came under the spell of his incomparable charm, and who retain recollections of his power and influence and achievements, are becoming few; and if one of us is to enlighten the professor—and others no better informed—it must be done soon."

In his first chapter, Mr. Kennedy says further: "I propose to describe the secession movement on the Pacific slope, and to show how, mainly through the efforts and influence of Edward D. Baker, the plot to involve California, Oregon and contiguous territories with the South in 1861, was frustrated and the Pacific Coast was saved to the Union."

But Illinois was making the hero, making him, unconsciously to himself—except for a sleepless ambition—among such other heroes, to be as Lincoln, Douglas, McDougall, Yates, Oglesby, and scores of others lesser known.

In 1835 Boker moved to Springfield and got down to the work of his profession. It was work to meet Lincoln, Hardin, Douglas, McDougal, Shields, Trumbull, Stuart, McConnell, and others. Baker was once in a case when Douglass, Browning, Yates, Richardson, Bush, Wm. R. Archer and James A. McDougall were also engaged on one side or the other.

"Dr. Jayne, who knew all the extraordinary men of that extraordinary period, declared that 'none of them began to compare with Col. Baker as public speaker.' When the committee to arrange for the laying of the cornerstone of the new state capitol, July 4, 1837 sought the orator for the occasion, Baker, then twenty six years of age, was chosen."

Baker's public career began with his election to the house of representatives from Sangamon county in 1837, and he was elected again, and in 1840 was made a state senator, serving four years. In 1844 he and Lincoln competed for the nomination to Congress, from this district, both of them being Whigs. Baker won, and served until he resigned to go into the Mexican war. And he was the only Whig in Congress from Illinois, at that time. It should be remembered that the Whigs as a party were bitterly opposed to that war. Yet, in his uniform as Colonel of the 4th Regt. of Illinois Volunteers, he appeared in his seat in Congress calling for proper supplies for the soldiers. As fast, thereafter, as he could go, he hastened to Mexico. There he was in the brigade of Gen. Shields when that gallant Irishman fell—supposedly fatally wounded—at Cerro Gordo. "In another moment there would have been a retreat, probably a rout. Col. Baker instantly took in the situation. Flashing his sword, he shouted to his own regiment, "Come on!" and ordered the whole brigade to advance. The brave fellows sprang forward to follow so intrepid a leader and drove the Mexicans pell-mell out of their fortifications." Gen. Scott continued Col. Baker in charge of the brigade until the expiration of the service of the 4th. Then Col. Baker returned to Illinois.

Mr. Kennedy says: "Baker had an insatiate appetite for action, an eagerness for influence on affairs, but he was unwilling to be a rival of Lincoln for political honors." Lincoln had succeeded Baker in Congress. So Baker moved out of this district, going to Galena, where he was elected to Congress after a residence of only three weeks in the district.

That office he resigned to be a manager, on the Isthmus, of the building of the Panama railroad. But during his term in Congress he had insisted upon the admission of California as a state.

An attack of the terrible malarial fever drove the indomitable fortune hunter back to Illinois. But only for a time. For the California Fever had taken hold on him, and, in 1852, he, with his family, followed Jas. A. McDougall from here to San Francisco.

There he became a leading lawyer, and was very successful, financially, in his profession. But politics always called him, and his ear was to the ground, so he was a candidate in 1855 for state senator, unsuccessfully, and in 1856 he stumped the state for Fremont, the first Republican candidate for President.

Meantime the Viligance Committee had became the law of San Francisco, but Col. Baker would not bend the knee to it, and he practiced out in the state. Thus he was employed when he heard a new call for in 1859, he was the candidate of the Republicans and Douglas Democrats for Congress, again unsuccessfully. In this campaign he upheld the Union and inculcated loyalty to it. This election, for some reason, was in September, 1859.

The ambition of Col. Baker's life had been to be a United States Senator.

Shortly after this election, in '59, a delegation came down from Oregon, among whom were some former Illinoisans, and invited him to migrate to Oregon.

They said in substance: "We know what you used to do in Illinois. We believe you can repeat your triumphs in Oregon. Our election comes next Spring. Come to us. Take the lead. The state is Democratic. You can make it Republican, and we will make you United States Senator."

Kennedy says, "It appealed to his chivalry, to his temperament, for doing things impossible to others. Difficulties did not dismay him; they roused him to his best efforts. He believed in the principles of the Republican party and he believed in himself."

He went up to Oregon in December, saw he was needed, took in the possibilities, returned to San Francisco, and arranged his business so as to leave California. On the 17th of February 1860, he set forth from the Golden Gate in search of the Golden Fleece of political success. This proved to be the political hide of Gen. Joseph Lane.

Lane was a native of North Carolina, emigrated to Indiana, held state offices, was a pro-slavery Democrat, enlisted as a private in the Mexican War was elected a colonel and appointed Brigadier-General by the President. In Mexico "he covered himself with glory," and upon Gen. Shields declining the office of Governor of Oregon Territory, Lane was given the place, went to that distant post, was delegate in Congress, and upon the admission of the state into the Union Gen. Lane was one of its first United States Senators. His term expired in December, 1860. In the campaign of 1860 Lane had run for Vice President on the ticket with John C. Breckenridge, nominated as a Democrat by the South as an opponent not only of Lincoln, but of Stephen A. Douglas. This nomination of two Democrats made practically the election of Lincoln, in November, 1860.

That the Southern leaders knew their man for the Pacific is shown by Senator Lane's statement, in a public address, "Fellow citizens, I warn you that if you elect a Northern President that moment will see this Union dissolved." In the Senate, replying to Andrew Johnson, Lane said, "I serve notice that when war is made on that gallant South for withdrawing from a Union which refused them their rights the Northern Democracy will not join in the crusade. The Republican party will have war enough at home."

Such was the man, especially with an undivided party in Oregon at his back, that Col. Baker was invited to come and beat.

Incidentally the writer would remark that ,at the Everett House in New York, in August, 1860 the writer heard a man addressed as "Mr. President." To the inquiry "Who was that?" the reply was "Gen. Joe Lane of Oregon, candidate for Vice President."

"Oregon, which was admitted to the Union as a state on February 14th, 1859, was a 'Democratic stronghold.' It may almost be said that Oregon was a slave state," says Kennedy.

Edward D. Baker walked into this political stronghold, "Joe Lane's Oregon," among other places addressing the people of Yamhill county, going everywhere that was accessible and expedient. He had grown prematurely gray, and the title of the "Gray Eagle" had been given him. And on the wings of sense and high oratory, the ex-Illinoisan flew over the great state by the Pacific, until in October, 1860, Edward Dickinson Baker was elected a Senator of the United States, by a union of Republicans and loyal Democrats, and carried with him the selection of Jas. W. Nesmith as his colleague. Thus making Oregon a Union stronghold in the coming "time of storm."

His first act, upon election, was to write of the fact to his mother a widow, here in Illinois, presumably at Winchester where her daughter, Mrs. Jerome, then resided.

Simeon Francis formerly of Illinois, founder of the "Oregonian," now the great paper of Portland, received a letter, which read in part:

"Springfield Ill., August, 1860.

"Friend Francis: If you see Col. Baker give him my respects,. I do hope he may not be tricked out of what he has fairly earned. Yours forever,

"As ever,
"A. Lincoln."

It is claimed that he not only secured the two Senators by his campaign, but that Col. Baker practically carried the Electoral vote of Oregon for Lincoln and Hamlin. And as he had been the only Whig from Illinois in the House of Representatives, so, now, he was the first Republican Senator from the Pacific slope.

It is to be noted that, today—1914—Henry Lane, son or grandson of General Joseph Lane, is a U. S. Senator from Oregon.

It is further to be remarked that, as Gen. Baker and Gen. Lane were national men in two or three states, so General James Shields, made Senator from Illinois by the Mexican War, sat in the higher house of Congress also as Senator from Minnesota and from Missouri.

At the time Baker was elected from Oregon practically every thing in California was in the hands of the pro-slavery Democracy. Broderick had been slain in a duel because he would not become a tool for the conspiracy against the Republic in California, and Baker had delivered a magnificent address over the fallen Senator's bier, before going to Oregon.

It is to be remembered that the poison of Secession had been working in the Golden West, as well as in the South, for some years, and the outbreak on Lincoln's election was well expected by those who were posted notably by Stephen A. Douglas.

It was in such a time as this this Col. Baker stopped in San Francisco, in October, 1860, on his way East to take his seat in the U. S. Senate.

It was on October 26th, 1860, that the largest auditorium in San Francisco was packed to hear Baker make a Republican address called by Hittell, the historian, "what was supposed to be the greatest speech came and washed this same secever delivered in California." Thousands packed the house, and more thousands could not get in. People who fainted had to be passed out over the heads of those in the theatre, so closely were the people wedged in. Such scenes of applause and enthusiasm were witnessed as we have had of late in National conventions; people cheered till they were tired and chered some more. It was almost past description how the speech was received, and what an address it was. One of the peculiar and amusing points being that the Californians scarcely realized that the abounding orator was not still their own fellow citizen of California.

Toward the end of the speech the applause lasted for about a quarter of an hour. Baker stood motionless through it all, then "he spoke as if he had not been interrupted in a throbbing tone that thrilled like an electric current, 'And I take courage. The Genius of America will at last lead her sons to freedom.' (Great applause.)"

The speech was fully reported, and spread broadcast through the state. "A few days later the Presidential election occurred. Abraham Lincoln had a plurality of 614 in California. Col. Baker had won the state for the part of Freedom."

Gen. Baker then came East, by the Isthmus route. Singularly Judah P. Benjamin, later a Confederate cabinet officer, then a Senator from Louisiana, was a passenger with Baker, and later, in the Senate Baker bested him in argument, as Baker did later with John C. Breckenridge of Kentucky.

Col. Baker came into the Senate, and then visited Lincoln, in Springfield, and made two addresses in this state. Probably one at Winchester.

The new President came to be inaugurated, and, as Douglas courteously held Lincoln's new hat, at the ceremonies, it was Edward D. Baker who stepped to the edge of the platform, and said: "Fellow citizens, I introduce to you Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States of America."

It seems to have been forgotten, but, a day or two later, in the Senate, Mr. Baker "construed" the Inaugural address of Mr. Lincoln.

Now events moved with startling haste. States seceeded, or tried to; Sumter was fired on and evacuated; the President called for troops; Baker organized a regiment of returned Californians in New York and Pennsylvania; Bull Run poured its gloom over the North; more soldiers were called for, and Scott resigned and McClellan was the "Young Napoleon," who was going to rush forward to victory.

Mr. Baker was not too busy with his duties as Senator, or in organizing his regiment—which grew to a brigade—to keep his eagle eye upon affairs in California. But he secured the appointment of Gen. E. V. Sumner as commander of that department, and that loyal old soldier soon choked the flickering breath out of the intended "Republic of the Pacific," before Sumner was recalled to the east to more active work.

Mr. Lincoln naturally depended greatly upon Baker as statesman, soldier and friend, and Baker was practically the director of Pacific matter. At one time a delegation of Californians visited the President, and Lincoln asked Baker to be present. One man, of an Anti-Baker faction, read a protest against Baker being a power on California appointments. The President took the manuscript and crushed it in his hand, then threw it into the grate fire, saying, "I will destroy this in the presence of the parties who bore it. The protest is more respectful, and I will file it for consideration. Col. Baker is my friend, I have known him for twenty five years. This attack upon him is unjust, and not borne out by the facts."

The President appointed Baker a Brigadier-General, but he declined it, because as a Colonel he could still be a Senator. Later he was appointed a Major-General and had not time to decline it; so he was practically in that position, also commanding a brigade, at Balls Bluff.

A great deal has been said about the battle of Balls Bluff. Apparently Gen. Stone, in command, made a mistake. It is also said that a traitor in the War Department gave away the contemplated movement. Surely it was badly managed. Our soldiers were crossed over the Potomac in unfit boats, with no proper facilities of getting back, and met by a superior force, were not properly supported. The soldiers were ordered to lie down. One of them said to Col. Baker "Colonel, why don't you lie down?" Baker replied, "My son when you get to be a United States Senator you will not lie down either."

Soon the fatal bullets came, and Edward D. Baker gave up his life for his country.

Not except at Lincoln's death, it is probable, did the Loyal North grieve as it did when word came of Baker having fallen. Surely the old West and the Far Pacific wailed at his going.

Edward D. Baker was a man of great charm and unblemished name, fine looking physically, topped with a crown of silvered hair. As an orator he was without equal, as a lawyer he was fair and able, as a patriot he gve his life for his adopted country, and, as years before he had dedicated "Lone Mountain" San Francisco's great cemetery, so now they laid him there to rest near Broderick. There, in that place of which he had said himself, "Within these grounds public reverence and gratitude shall build the tombs of warriors and statesmen who have given all their lives and best thoughts to their country."

It was Thomas Starr King, companion with Baker in saving the Coast to the Republic, who said the last eloquent words. "We receive thee to 'reverence and gratitude' as we lay thee gently to thy sleep; and we pledge to thee not only a monument that shall hold they name, but a memorial in the hearts of a grateful people so long as the Pacific moans near thy resting place, and a fame eminent among the heroes of the Republic as long as the mountains shall feed the Oregon."

MAKING THE INCANDESCENT LAMP.

The ordinary Mazda incandescent lamp is not expensive, although it is the product of elaborate manufacturing processes. Each lamp contains 25 separate pieces of material and not less than 46 operations the required to finish and assemble it. And not of these 25 materials is a finished product, or raw material. They are all products of separate processes and factories, each represents in itself a number of careful and expensive operations. For example, the manufacture of the glass bulb is a complete operation in itself, requiring large factories, extensive furnaces to melt the various compounds, some of which are imported, and an army of skilled workmen. The diffirent parts of an electric lamp are:

The glass bulb.
The wire filament.
Top and bottom anchors for filament.
Cane glass bulb to support filament.
Leading-in wires.
Glass stem.
Air tight seal.
Brass screw shell of base.
Glass insulation for base.
Brass cap contact of base.

The work of assembling the lamp requires skill and attention to detail. Some of the operations require the highest skill; some of such a nature that a few second, or a few degrees variation in temperature, will ruin the lamp. The vacuum is obtained to a degree undreamed of a few years ago, being as good as 99.999 per cent of an absolute vaccum.

Time it!—"Pape's Diapepsin" Makes Your Upset, Bloated Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated, your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way, when the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.—Adv.

COMMISSIONER TELLS OF TREMENDOUS TASK

COMMISSIONER PROUTY ADDRESSES CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF U. S.

Speaker Outlines Task Entrusted by Congress to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Namely—The Valuation of Property of all Common Carriers Subject to the Commission's Jurisdiction.

Washington, Feb. 11.—An outline of the tremendous task entrusted by Congress to the Interstate Commerce Commission—the valuation of the property of all common carriers subject to the commission's jurisdiction—was given here tonight by Commissioner C. A. Prouty before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in annual convention. The commissioner cleared up a popular misconception as to the nature of the undertaking, resulting from the use of the term "physical valuation" while the matter was pending before congress and since. He explained that the commission is to determine just what each carrier is worth, taking into consideration what it cost to produce the property and to build up the service what it would cost to r produce it today, and what the line or company would sell for with its enhanced or depreciated valuation, its acquired privileges and its patronage.

Work Relating to Railroads.

That part of the work relating to railroads alone was dealt with at length by Mr. Prouty. He said that the task had not sufficiently progressed so that its details could be either intelligently or profitably discussed. Preliminary surveys are being made, the country being divided for the purpose into five districts, by states, each containing approximately fifty thousand miles of railroad.

"Each of these districts," said Mr. Prouty, "will have an organization of its own which will conduct the surveys within those particular limits. Subsequently these surveys will be worked out partly in the district and partly at the head office in Washington. Surveys began in all the districts except one about February 1, and will begin in that district about February 15.

Will Proceed With Caution.

"It has seemed to the commssion the part of wisdom to proceed with caution until sure of its ground. In this view a railroad has been selected in each district upon which these surveys will proceed with deliberation and in such manner as to afford a kind of instruction school to all employees. This preliminary work will occupy three or four months, which means that we shall not be in position to rapidly develop our organization until about July 1. Beginning then, or slightly before, our force can be rapidly increased, to which reference has been made.

Work Will be Costly.

"Any estimate of the expense must be even more unreliable than that of the time. Railroads have been valued both by public authority and by themselves, and the cost of these valuations has run all the way from two dollars to seventy-five dollars per mile. Knowing what must be done, the methods which must be followed, the rate of accomplishment which has been attainable in other places, I should say, baising my estimate upon the experience of state commissions, that fifteen dollars per mile would be sufficient to cover the engineering part of the work and ten dollars per mile the accounting and other features. This would aggregate for the entire 250,000 miles between six and seven million dollars.

Must Furnish Maps and Plans.

"Evidently, before it can be determined what it would cost to build a particular railroad as it today exists, we must know exactly where and what that railroad is. This means that as a preliminary to the work of valuation every railroad must furnish the commission with maps and plans which will identify its property. When this work is completed, there will be found in the office of the commission at Washington an accurate map and inventory of the property of every railroad engaged in interstate business as of June 30, 1914, together with other maps and plans showing all subsequent additions to the property. This of itself is a work of great magnitude which must be done by the carriers as a part of the general undertaking.

Pacific District First.

"The first railroad which the commission is proceeding to survey in what is known as the Pacific District is the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake, extending from San Pedro, California to Salt Lake City, Utah, some eight hundred miles. The course of the road is for the most part through an arid desert. A certain section of it when built, was located where no man thought it could ever be disturbed by floods, yet shortly after it was opened for operation the floods came and carried out this portion. It was at once reconstructed upon a new location supposed to be beyond all possible danger from a recurrence of the previous disaster, nevertheless the waters again came and washed away this same section; whereupon it was rebuilt upon a third location, beyond all possible reach of future trouble from this source. Now in determining the value of this property what if any allowance is to be made for this experimental outlay?

"The Northern Pacific Railroad runs through the city of Spokane. When the road was built that city was of small account but it has come to be of much account, and in the process of development it has grown up on both sides of the railroad. The Northern Pacific claimed, and it may very well have been true, that the cost of acquiring its right of way through the heart of the city of Spokane at the time of the hearing would be at least five million dollars. The original cost to the railroad was nothing, the right of way having been entirely donated either by the government or by private benefaction. Now to whom belongs this five million dollars? Has the Northern Pacific the right to tax the public for a return upon that amount?

The Purpose and Benefit.

"What finally," asked Mr. Prouty, "is the purpose of and the benefit to be derived from all this outlay of money and of energy? When any investor can know from reliable sources the exact character of his investment; how much it would cost to reproduce the property; in what state of efficiency that property is being maintained; above all, what is the value of that property for use as a railroad, there has been injected into railroad securities an element of certainty and of permanency which does not now exist. It seems to me therefore that this work of valuation will be of incidental benefit to the railway investor and so to the general public. While this has not been generally, perhaps not at all remarked upon as an advantage, it will turn out to be a substantial one.

To Determine Proper Rates.

"To the general apprehension the object of this valuation is to determine what rates our railways should be allowed to charge for their services to the public.

"While the property invested in our railroads and other public utilities is private property, the government has, in consideration of the nature of the service rendered, the right to impose upon this property the terms and conditions under which it shall be used.

"It is impossible to shake a single railroad free from every other and fix its charged upon the basis of a fair return upon its fair value as you would in case of a gas or water plant. The rate established for one, of necessity influences and frequently determines the rate of all, a fact which must never be forgotten in discussing this subject.

Now it is evident that if the commission should select that road most advantageously situated, that road whose business is the largest and upon which the condition of operation are the most favorable, and should so adjust its rates as to yield a return of six per cent upon its value, every other railroad standing in competition with it would receive less than a six percent return and some railroads might receive nothing whatever.

"While, however, I wish to make it perfectly plain that the problem of establishing railway rates will not be solved by this valuation, I desire to say with even greater emphasis that that problem will be enormously simplified. It can be known with certainty whether the general level of rates is or is not too high, and in establishing the charges to be observed by a single carrier, even in fixing the rate upon a single commodity, it will be of much benefit to know the value of the property involved.

Of Great Political Value.

"While this valuation will be of incidental benefit to the investor, while it is essential to the work of the rate-making tribunal, it seems to me that its greatest immediate value is political. The state of the public mind towards our railways is such that this information is absolutely necessary."

Schedule of American League Games for Campaign of 1914

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—American League schedule makers who announced tonight their program for the coming season awarded to Boston, New York, Chicago and Detroit the opening games set for Tuesday April 14th.

Chicago will see the greatest number of Sunday games, fifteen in all. Every other club is given two of the Sunday dates with St. Louis getting the extra one.

The only four conflicting dates scheduled with the National League will be played in Chicago on Sundays. In the old days conflicts were more frequent, and took place in St. Louis as well as Chicago, but the removal of the Sunday ball ban in Detroit and Cleveland has made it possible to lessen them.

The season closes three days earlier in the west section than in the east. Sunday October 4th, sees the end in the former division. The last games in the east are to be played October 7th.

(Blackface figures denote Sundays; in brackets, holidays.)

SPECULATION ON STOCK EXCHANGE LACKS ANIMATION

Professional Traders Are Inclined to Contract Operations In View of Today's Holiday.

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The level of stock market quotations was not altered appreciably by today's trading. Speculation lacked any suggestion of animation and the market apparently had settled down for a period of dullness. With a holiday at hand and in the absence of new incentives for taking a position one way or the other professional traders were inclined to contract the operations.

Early in the day there was a general advance which reached fair proportions in some cases, but in the late session gains were scaled down until at the close net changes in most cases were of significance.

By contract with yesterday the undertone was better.

The market was freed from the effects of heavy liquidation in a few stocks which have been conspicuously weak recently, although late in the day there was a renewal of selling in New York Central, which dropped below 89. Rock Island issues were steady and mercantile marine securities made up a part of their severe losses of the week.

A CARELESS AUTOIST.

Yesterday afternoon as William Tazewell was entering the city on the South Diamond street pavement his horses gave a sudden start and if he had not had a firm hold on the lines he would have had a runaway. His peace of mind was not at all enhanced by seeing an automobile whiz by though the driver had failed wholly to sound his horn or give any notice of his approach and his machine was well nigh noiseless, so much so that Mr. Tazewell didn't hear it. He is positive there was no number. The law is specific on this subject and both wagons and autos have rights on the highway but each should regard the privileges of the other. Mr. Tazewell is not thirsting for any person's blood but he says he has been annoyed this way several times and having a spirited team is often in danger.

HEAVY SELLING COUNTERACTS ALL BULL INFLUENCES

Effect of Good Export Call and of Threatened Cold Wave Counterbalanced By Selling in Wheat Market.

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Selling by holders who wished to avoid any open risk during the holiday tomorrow counter-balanced in the wheat market today the effect of a good export call and of threatened cold wave. The market closed easy at the same as last night to ⅜c up. Other staples all showed a net decline, corn ¼@ to ; oats 1⅛ and provisions 2½ to 10c.

Export buying included both winter and spring wheat, and took place here and in Kansas and at Duluth, as well as along the seaboard. Throughout virtully the entire day wheat prices held slightly above last night's level. Most of the selling to prepare for the holiday was withheld until just before the close.

Corn weakened under an increase of country offerings and because of continued slowness of shipping demand. Reports of a partial failure of the Argentine late crop helped to prevent a more decided set back.

Oats were depressed by the heaviness of corn and by incredulity about supposed export sales of Canadian oats at Buffalo. In the provision crowd free selling by stock yard interests more than offset what ever bullishness might have resulted from an early advance in the price of hogs. Owners seemed to be especially determined to get rid of lard.

You Marvel How Worst Skin Eruptions Disappear as Result of Famous Remedy

If you should meet anyone varnishing a sore with a greasy ointment, your best advice would be to quit such things and attend to the blood.

To successfully fight any blood trouble, some eruptive skin disease—call it eczema, lupus, psoriasis, malaria or scrofula—get your blood under the influence of S. S. S. It is one of those rare medical forces which act in the blood with the same degree of certainty that is found in all natural tendencies. The manner in which it dominates and controls the mysterious transference of rich, red, pure arterial blood, for the diseased venous blood is marvelous.

Out through every skin pore acids, germs and other blood impurities are forced in the form of invisible vapor; the bowels, kidneys, bladder and all emunctories of the body are marshalled into a fighting force to expel every vestige of eruptive disease.

There is scarcely a community anywhere but what has its living example of the wonderful curative effects of S. S. S. Get a bottle of this famous remedy to-day, and if your case is stubborn or peculiar, write to the Swift Specific Co., 216 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Do not permit anyone to talk you into some useless compound they put up as a substitute for S. S. S. No honest druggist will do this.

Abraham Lincoln, His Log Cabin Home, and National Memorial.

The memory of Abraham Lincoln does not fade as time wears on, and the commemoration of his birthday this year is a national event of utmost interest and importance. Feb. 12 has become one of the great days of observance for the American people, and rightly so, for the influence exerted on their affairs by the martyred president will be powerful for all time. The illustration shows a war time photo of Lincoln, the log cabin where he lived in early youth and the memorial which will be erected on the Potomac river in Washington.

APPALLING FIRE LOSS N ILLINOIS IN 1913

Nearly 8,500 Conflagrations Caused Losses to Property Owners—State Fire Marshal Calls Attention to Inadequate Means of Fire Fighting.

There were reported to the fire marshal department during the past year 8,432 fires, as compared with 9,092 fires for the year 1912. Since the chiefs of fire departments are not required to report to this department fires in which the damage is less than five dollars, this number does not cover the hundreds of such fires which were extinguished by these efficient departments with practically no damage. Three thousan, two hundred and seven of these fires occurred in the city of Chicago and 5,225 in the state at large. The total fire loss as reported to this department for the entire year amounts to the enormous sum of $13,666,438; of which $5,140,353 represents the loss in the city of Chicago and $8,526,085 represents the loss in the state at large outside of the city of Chicago. This is an increase of about $2,000,000 over the loss as reported for the year 1912. However, it is very probable that this excess is more seeming than real, inasmuch as never before have reports of fires been so carefully made and so earnestly tabulated as during the year 1913. It is also accounted for insome respect by the fact the summer was so exceedingly hot and dry and fires which ordinarily would have been distinguished with very little damage resulted in serious conflagrations.

Losses in Smaller Towns.

A number of smaller towns of the state, not having proper water supply and fire fighting apparatus, were practically destroyed by such fires. Among the towns, considering their size, suffered very disastrous fires were Bridgeport, where a fire practically destroyed the entire business section of the city, causing a loss of $100,000; Olney, which suffered a similar fire, causing a loss of $125,000; Arenzville(causing a loss of $90,000; Farmer City,causing a loss of $50,000; and Weldon, causing a loss of $55,000. There were also a number of exceedingly large fires in the state of Illinois during the year 1913, which tended to materially increase the total loss. The Ford Manufacturing company at Vandalia,causing a loss estimated at $500,000; the fire which destroyed the Dayton Tablet factory at Quincy, causing a loss of $300,000; the Globe distillery fire at Pekin, which caused a loss of $250,000; and the car barns of the Tri-City Railroad company at Rock Island, that burned, causing a loss of $250,000.

Flying sparks on roofs, etc., caused 917 fires at a loss of approximately $800000; defective flues and chimneys caused 762 fires at a loss of $657,180; 542 fires entailing a loss of $500,000 were communicated by fires in adjoining buildings; 325 fires, causing a loss of $250,000, were caused by spontaneous combustion;carelessness with matches is given asthe cause of 420 fires; overheated stoves and furnaces caused 496 fires, and gasoline explosions caused 267 fires.

LARGEST MORTGAGE EVER FILED IN MORGAN COUNTY

Swift & Co., Files Mortgage Securing $50,000,000 Five Per Cent Gold Bonds.

A first mortgage was filed Wednesday with Circuit Clerk Eugene Pyatt by Swift & Co., on real estate owned by them in seventy counties of this state to the First Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago. The mortgage secures $50,000,000 of five per cent sinking fund gold bonds. The recording fee for the document in this county is $96,00 as it contains 96,000 words. As the mortgage must be recorded in each of the seventy counties in which Swift & Co., hold property listed in the paper, the recording fee will amount to a neat sum and will furnish the clerks in the various offices work for some time to come.

Recognized Advantages.

You will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has recognized advantages over most medicines in use for coughs and colds. It does not suppress a cough, but loosens and relieves it. It aids expectoration and opens the secretions, which enables the system to throw off a cold. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. It contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

OBITUARY.

Alice Louise Powers, who died on Wednesday, January 14, 1914, of diphtheria, was born in this city, August 8, 1908, being 5 years, 5 months and 6 days old at the time of her death. She is survived by her parents, Arthur W and Maud (Wimberly) Powers, two brothers, Ernest and John and one sister, Helen. She was a member of the Grace M. E. Sunday school and the kindergarten and by her cheerful disposition made friends wita whomsoever she met. There always will be a vacant place in the family circle where she is greatly missed. Just before she became unconscious she said her usual little prayer "Now, I lay me down to sleep. Now Jesus thought best her dear soul to keep and she is resting safely in his loving care until we may join her in that place of rest and joy which God has prepared for all who love him.

"Precious darling; she has left us,
Left us, yes, forever more;
But we hope to meet our loved one,
On that bright and happy shore.
Lonely the house and sad the hours
Since our dear one has gone;
But Oh- a brighter home than ours,
In heaven is now her own."

How to Prevent Bilious Attacks.

"Coming events cast their shadows before." This is especially true of bilious attacks. Your appetite will fail, you will feel dull and languid. If you are subject to bilious attacks take three of Chamberlain's Tablets as soon as these symptoms appear and the attack may be warded off. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

"The Firefly" Will be a Great Attraction.

As manager of the Grand Opera House I take very great pleasure in announcing to the public that "The Firefly" at this theatre tomorrow night will be found a standard attraction of the highest class. In offering Miss Edith Thayer in this comedy opera Arthur Hammerstein has presented a musical attraction of the greatest worth. Miss Thayer who is somewhat new to theatre patrons here has an established reputation in the East and is said tot be a very worthy successor in the part she essays, to the talented Trentini. Otto Hauerbach and Rudolf Frimi composed "The firefly" and Jacksonville people who see the performance Friday night will agree that they did artistic work and that Mr. Hammerstein has given the comedy-opera a most artistic setting and a talented cast.

Large Attendance Despite the Cold Weather—Some Winners in the Various Events.

The members of the Nichols Park Gun Club held their regular semi-monthly shoot Tuesday at Nichols park. Despite the cold day there was a large attendance and the club house was scarcely large enough to contain all, as the biting cold made the inside inviting. Two, two hundred pound dressed hogs and 18 thoroughbred Plymouth Rock roosters, were given as prizes.

There were fifty entries for the meat and thirty got a portion. Among the winners were the following, some of them got two and three pieces of meat: W. E. Masters, Mr. Claywell, Winchester, George Taylor, Walter Hellenthal, Charles Knollenberg, Samuel Perry, Wesley Robertson, C. E. Keenan, Abner Obermeyer, Arthur Dunlay, Clark Green, and W. T. Craig. TREASURY EXPLAINS THE INCOME TAX LAW

NEW BOOKLET ISSUED TO CLEAR UP COMPLEXITIES OF MEASURE.

Main Purpose Is to Show Individuals How to Arrive at Sums on Which They are Taxable New Ruling Given With Reference to Persons Having Net Income of Less Than $20,000, All From Investment Securities.

Washington, Feb. 11.—After weeks of study the complexities of theincome tax law, treasury officials today issued a 90 page booklet, christened it "Regulations No. 33," and sent it forth to collectors of internal revenue in the expectation that it will clear up many of the misunderstandings concerning the law which have arisen throughout the country.

Information for Tax Payers.

It takes 23 pages of the book to set forth the law itself, but 60 pages are used in telling how the net income to be taxed is ascertained by the tax payer, when and where tax must be paid, what penalties will be imposed for non-payment what exemptions and deductions will be allowed. Many pages are devoted to an explanation of that part of the law imposing a one per cent tax on the income of all corporations, which replaces the old corporation tax.

Although officials are confident that his booklet will prove a guide to tax payers which may settle many apparently difficult problems, there will be other regulations in the future when new points are raised. The book does not contain a new set of regulations, but is a compilation in compact form of the ones already issued, with explanations of points never before discussed. Under the law, partnerships are not subject to the tax, but the regulations provide that annual profits from a partnership paid to members shall be included in their returns and where such profits are undistributed and unpaid they must be ascertained and included in the individual's return for taxation just the same.

New Ruling on Investment Returns.

It is made clear for the first time that persons who have a net income of less than $20,000, all derived from investments and upon which the tax has been withheld at the source, shall not be required to make any return. Executors and administrators of estates of persons are required to pay the tax on the net income for the part of the year in which the deceased was alive.

Where persons taxable refuse to make the proper list or return or makes false return the regulations provide that the proper collector of internal revenue, shall after due notice, make the return for such person and the tax shall be assessed on this return, with a fifty or one hundred per cent penalty added. Returns must be verified by oath or affirmation. Returns shall be sent by collectors to the commissioner of internal revenue in Washington by registered mail. Taxes unpaid after June 30 shall bring a penalty of 5 per cent after ten days' notice and demand by the proper collector, and interest at the rate of one per cent a month from the date due. Returns shall be made to collectors before March 1, every year.

Corporation Returns.

In dealing with the corporation feature, it is explained that all returns shall be public records subject to inspection on order of the president of the United States under rules prescribed by the secretary of the treasury. Copies of returns can not be sent to any person except the corporation or its attorney, but on request of the governor, officers of a state which imposes a general income tax, may have access to returns by corporations doing business in that state. United States district attorneys, may, under certain restrictions, have access to the returns. Disclosure by any collector or other employe of the United States, of any information whatever, set forth in any return of annual net income, is made a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $1,000 and one year's imprisonment and if the person found guilty is a United States employe he will be dismissed and thereafter be incapable of holding office under the government.

TAXES TAXES

Taxes are now due and payable at the sheriff's office. Bring your last year's receipt or a complete description of your property when making payment.

W. B. ROGERS,
Sheriff and Collector.

W. N. HAIRGROVE IS APPOINTED FOR IMPORTANT WORK

Will Supervise Collection of Inheritance Tax in District Comprising Five Counties.

Wm. N. Hairgrove was notified yesterday by Attorney General Lucey of his appointment to supervise the collection of the inheritance tax in a district comprising 5 counties. The apopintment carries with it a stated salary of $1500 a year and an allowance of $500 for expenses. The district over which Mr. Hairgrove will have supervision consists of Morgan, Scott, Pike, Brown and Adams counties. In his letter notifying Mr. Hairgrove the Attorney General called attention to the fact that this work has not been pushed to the full limit and that there are doubtless many estates which should be called to the attention of the courts for proper appraisements and the subsequent collection of taxes due the state. The letter also called attention to the fact that a law is now on the statute books which makes it possible in certain cases where it is easy to arrive at the valuation of an estate to fix the amount of the inheritance tax by agreement—without the expense of a special investigation by an appraiser. It will be Mr. Hairgrove's duty to locate estates in the several counties which should be subject to this tax and then to bring such cases to the attention of the county court in the county where the estate is being settled. In making this appointment, the attorney general has given deserved recognition to a long-time Democrat and has appointed a lawyer who is qualified in every way for the important work which will be under his general direction.
